JASPER
TOWNSITE

ABOUT

In the heart of Jasper National Park sits the town of Jasper. This friendly community got its start as a railway town named Fitzhugh. In 1913 the small settlement was renamed in honour of Jasper Hawes, a voyageur and trading post manager. It wasn't long before word spread of the area's astonishing beauty. Today, approximately 5,000 people live here year round and welcome the travellers who want to experience life in an authentic mountain town.

welcome to Jasper

There's the version of Jasper that the world is familiar with: rugged mountains, turquoise lakes, otherworldly glaciers. The prettiest pictures from a protected wilderness. Then there's the version of Jasper you're about to meet. It's still gorgeous, don't get us wrong, but it's so much more than that.

We invite you to go deeper into this wildly lovable place. Taken literally, you might simply strap on cleats and walk to the frozen bottom of 50-metre deep Maligne Canyon to stare at nature's ice sculptures (p.16). Or you can get comfy, stay awhile, and find out why even lifelong locals feel like they've barely scratched the surface of all there is to discover here.

Over the following pages we've tried to provide a comprehensive guide to the many kinds of adventures, experiences, and memories available in Jasper. Explore everything from unique festivals (p.14) to Indigenous fireside chats (p.40) to helicopter tours (p.29) to one-of-a-kind shopping (p.13). Get to know the fascinating residents who are known to be so friendly and helpful that it has inspired on-stage jokes (p.41).

There's something here for everyone. Families will find plenty to entertain the kids (p.36), dog owners are delighted at the number of pet-friendly options (p.38) and foodies have their pick of eateries where the scenery is as delicious as the dish (p.50). Want to just get away from it all? Jasper's cabin culture is unmatched (p.58).

Here, you can be awed by even a fleeting glance from the car window. Or you can venture off the beaten path and be transformed.

GETTING HERE

Highway 16, also known as "the Yellowhead," is the main east-west route through Jasper and is part of the famous Trans-Canada Highway. The Icefields Parkway (highway 93) runs north-south and is considered one of the most scenic drives in the world. Plan your journey to Jasper at jasper.travel/getting-here.

Road-trippers should factor in extra time for scenic stops, wildlife jams and/or inclement weather. Or, let a professional take the wheel and book an airport shuttle, transport bus, or private charter tour with SunDog Transportation and Tour Co (p.28).

5 TIPS FOR DRIVING THE ICEFIELDS PARKWAY IN WINTER

Confirm conditions

Weather is often different on the parkway than surrounding areas. Check road reports at 511.alberta.ca or dial 511 on your phone.

Watch for wildlife

The parkway passes through caribou habitat. Be alert, drive the speed limit and stay away from any animals (see middle pull out map).

Bring supplies

Much of the highway has no cellphone reception. Have an emergency kit that includes (but is not limited to): warm clothing, food and water.

Leave early

Allow plenty of extra time to fully enjoy the views along the route. When safe, pull off to roadside stops to snap some pictures.

Fill up before leaving

None of the gas stations between Jasper and Lake Louise operate in winter. Also, snow tires are mandatory from November 1 to March 31.

GEAR TIPS

WHAT TO PACK

Be ready for any Jasper adventure in any season with these guiding principles.

1. Weather can change quickly in the mountains. Be prepared with multiple layers. This often means a light base shirt, a warm sweater or puffy, and a waterproof jacket.
2. Higher elevations are usually colder and windier. That applies if you're hiking into the alpine, but also if you're driving to certain places around the national park like the Columbia Icefield or Maligne Lake, which are usually a few degrees chillier than town. A hat or mitts can come in handy, even in summer.
3. Trail conditions can vary. Check Parks Canada trail reports before setting out and ensure your footwear is appropriate and comfortable.
4. There are areas of the national park that don't have cell service. Bring physical maps or have maps pre-downloaded on your device in preparation. Having a can of bear spray is always recommended.
5. Last of all, resist the temptation to overpack. Leave room in your suitcase or bag for a souvenir. With so many amazing and unique spots in Jasper, you'll regret not being able to bring home a memento of your time in the mountains.

WHAT TO BRING HOME

Whether you're looking for the perfect souvenir or just forgot to pack something, Jasper's unique retailers can help. Find exactly what you need (and also a lot of things you want) at these Patricia Street shops.

LOLÈ JASPER

Yogis, runners, travellers and basically anyone who is often moving should pop in to this bright and friendly store. Stocked with a surprising variety of products that support wellness and an active lifestyle, Lolè Jasper is perfect for those who prioritize comfort but still want to look polished. Ever since it was created in 2002, this Canadian clothing brand has created women's technical outerwear and travel wear that's versatile and durable but also flattering, feminine, and fashion-forward. The idea is to foster smarter, less frequent buys: to make something that takes you from studio to street, from trail to ski track. To dive deeper into the brand's goal of creating positive change for both communities and the planet, ask about the store's annual Wellness Weekend.

WILD MOUNTAIN

For outdoor enthusiasts seeking stylish, effective activewear and local expertise, you can't go wrong with this treasure trove of mountain gear. Wild Mountain stocks a variety of adventure focused brands, from Smartwool to Rab to Fjallraven to the North Face (they actually have the largest selection of The North Face products in the Canadian Rockies). It's run by longstanding locals with a passion for experiencing as much of Jasper as possible, and thanks to some staff's passion for ultra-running, they also carry Hoka and Altra footwear. "We cherry-pick the best and most relevant products that make sense for our mountain environment," says manager Dave MacDowell. "Our goal is to really be ambassadors of Jasper and share our experiences and suggestions." But their commitment to quality goes deeper than just their one-on-one service and top-notch products. With strong environmental integrity and community engagements, this shop is an all-round win that'll make you feel good both inside and outside.

Ransom Jasper

RANSOM

One step inside this well-organized and spacious store and you'll feel you've discovered the heart of Jasper's casually cool, mountain-town aesthetic. On the sliding scale between fashion and function, Ransom falls somewhere just left of center, on the fashion side. There's clothing for both men and women, as well as hats, sunglasses, backpacks, travel gear, and footwear. Many big name lifestyle brands are represented here, from Oakley to Only, Dakine to Dex. But what sets Ransom apart is its in-house collections and partnerships with local artists.

The Ransom brand items are designed in-house, and feature illustrations that you may start to notice Jasperites wearing around town, like a stylized Pyramid Mountain against stripes or a ball-cap wearing bear.

And then there are the collaborations that Ransom makes with local creatives. By working with artists, potters, painters, and more, they turn designs into wearable art. These unique creations are one-of-a-kind, and often only available for a limited season, making them a perfect souvenir of your time in Jasper. Some of the pieces draw direct inspiration from the surrounding landscape, like one shirt which depicts a viewpoint from the top of Morro Peak. Others are abstract interpretations of fantastical flora and fauna.

Store owner Silvie Walsh grew up in Jasper, and loves chatting with customers about the town's diverse arts and culture scene and the hidden stories behind Ransom's collections. After all, she says, there are so many talented, original people in Jasper, so why not turn their vision into something you can wear and treasure for years to come?

Ransom's sister store Bombshell is located a few doors down and specializes in exclusively feminine designs, with stylish dresses, chic trends, and locally-made jewelry.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN RIVER GUIDES

Water has been a powerful force of change within the national park, and when shooting the class 3 rapids on Sunwapta River, it's easy to see why. Rocky Mountain River Guides offers a thrilling adventure for people who prefer to see incredible scenery through the spray of fast, fun waves (the Sunwapta's Indigenous name roughly translates to turbulent waters) and ends with a glacial faceful of water from a wave called The Whopper. For a more moderate adrenaline rush, there's also two slightly milder tours down the Athabasca River, which are great options if participants are younger than 12 years old. No previous experience is necessary for any of the tours and wetsuits are provided, so everyone can release their inner river rat!

Convenient and family-friendly trails connect Whistlers and Wapiti campgrounds to downtown. Reach the townsite in fifteen minutes, or some other top spots in under an hour. Pack a lunch, some bear spray and use pedal power to score a win-win for both your health and the well-being of the park.

ELISSA CUMMINGS

After she mountain biked from Jasper to Mexico at 21 years old, Elissa was inspired to start her own bike guiding business. Here are some of her favourite ways to spend time in Jasper (hint: it involves a lot of biking).

Lake Annette

Grab a take-out meal from one of Jasper's excellent local restaurants (p.50) and enjoy a relaxed afternoon by this serene spot. There's a beach and picnic tables to use; when warm it's also a popular swimming spot!

Guided Bike Tour

Want a bit more bespoke biking experience? Join Journey Bike Guides (p.67) for a few hours of exploring trails tailored to your ability level. Fat bike tours are available in the winter.

Pyramid Lake

A half hour bike uphill (or ten minute drive) will get you to Pyramid Lake. This iconic area has tons of trails, or you can rent a watercraft and paddle around beneath Pyramid Mountain.

Scan QR code to read Elissa's personal story about comeback after injury.

SKI MARMOT BASIN

When it's not charming people with its stunning views and uncrowded slopes, this beloved skier's heaven (known by local Jasperites as 'the hill') is winning accolades far and wide. It was recently ranked as the most affordable ski resort in North America and helped establish Jasper as the friendliest ski town on the continent.

7 THINGS TO LOVE ABOUT MARMOT BASIN

1 HIGHEST BASE ELEVATION OF ANY MAJOR CANADIAN SKI AREA

At 1,698 metres, the ski chalet at the base of Marmot Basin offers incredible views of surrounding mountain ranges, to say nothing of the panoramic extravaganza that awaits from the upper areas.

2 EXTENDED SKI SEASON

Partly thanks to its high elevation, Marmot Basin enjoys a longer season than most ski resorts. Open from mid-November to May, the mountain averages over 440 centimetres of dry Alberta snow every year.

Travel Tip
Marmot Basin is now part of The Mountain Collective! This pass gets you free lift tickets at dream ski destinations around the world with no blackout dates.

3 USER-FRIENDLY LAYOUT

When your base is built on the side of a mountain, good design is crucial. Marmot's parking lots are tiered up the slope, meaning you can ski to and from your car. With no long approach walk, zipping back for lunch or forgotten mittens is easy. Also, all ski routes eventually converge, making it easy for groups to arrange meet-ups.

4 UNCROWDED ATMOSPHERE

Spend more time skiing, less time standing around. Marmot Basin has plenty of room to breathe, and waiting in lift lines is usually minimal (and sometimes non-existent). Chalets at both the base and at mid-mountain offer multiple options to relax, refuel, go to the bathroom and plan your next runs over a pint.

5 TEMPERATURE INVERSIONS

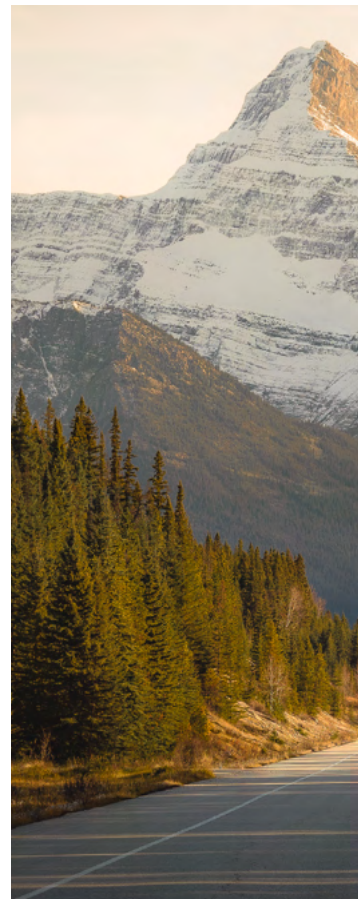

Usually, the higher elevation you are, the colder it is. But thanks to a fun scientific effect wherein cool air can get trapped beneath a layer of warmer air (the inversion layer) then Marmot Basin can experience temperatures that are 10-15°C warmer at mid-mountain than in the much lower town of Jasper.

6 GREAT FOR FAMILIES

Need childcare while you shred? No problem. Marmot Basin's on-mountain Little Rascals Nursery entertains tots from 19 months to 6 years old. If your kids want to hit the slopes, programs like Marmot Mites or Tiny Tracks are great options.

7 VARIETY OF RUNS

Of the mountain's 91 runs, there's a nice split of all skill levels spread over the mountain, so beginners aren't stuck to one area. For expert shredders, "Tres Hombres" is a steep, long, and wide-open bowl that sits on the north face of the mountain. It only opened to the public in 2018, but has quickly become legendary.

In places where you're meant to leave only footprints and take only photographs, you want to make sure those pictures are the best they can be. A local photography guide can help both novices and professionals best capture Jasper's most photogenic landscapes and find hidden gems. Jasper Photo Tours has a wide variety of highly-customizable options, including private and semi-private photo tours that specialize in wildlife, landscape, astrophotography and more. The tours are versatile and tailored, offering a balance of technical camera expertise and local knowledge of the best photo spots at the best times of day; they also include transportation. For those who see natural wonders with an artist's eye, these tours are key to experiencing the national park in a way you'll truly remember. And if you're travelling with a non-photographer, you're in luck: each shutter-happy client is permitted a non-participating guest who can tag along for the ride. Whichever tour you choose, you'll come away with great photos, a bespoke tutorial and a deeper understanding of Jasper's beauty.

MALIGNE RAFTING ADVENTURES

The longstanding Maligne Rafting Adventures company rafts more rivers in Jasper than any other outfitter. The Athabasca, Sunwapta and Fraser Rivers each have different intensities, from class 2 rapids (great for families and apprehensive first-timers) to class 3+ (perfect for fit beginners and adrenaline seekers).

The Athabasca Falls Canyon Run splashes through some fun, gentler class 2+ rapids before floating into the scenic Athabasca Valley. The Sunwapta River Trip is class 3, with a steep gradient and many rapids that are most intense mid-June to late July. Or, travel a bit further afield to reach the Mighty Fraser River (trust us, the drive is worth it). Count on getting wet in this river's turbulent class 3+ rapids. Includes a short portage and the chance to spot seasonal spawning salmon.

This is also a great activity to do if it's raining out! After all, you're probably going to get splashed anyway. And speaking of "taking the plunge," if bachelor/bachelorette parties bring a group of eight or more, the bride or groom rafts for free!

Fishing

Jasper offers one of North America's highest concentrations of fishable lakes and rivers, but before grabbing your fishing rod, make sure to first get a national park fishing permit from Parks Canada!

Kayak & SUP

As peaceful or as adventurous as you want, both kayaking and stand-up paddleboarding are becoming more popular ways of exploring Jasper's many lakes and rivers. Rentals available at the Boathouse at Fairmont Jasper Park Lodge.

The Jasper SkyTram makes it easy to gain a jaw-dropping bird's-eye view of Jasper National Park, but there's more to do at the top of Whistlers Mountain than simply stand in awe. Here's a taste of what awaits.

7 THINGS TO DO AT THE JASPER SKYTRAM

LEARN

During the seven-minute flight up the mountain, your SkyTram guide explains various aspects of the tramway and the surrounding mountain ranges. Soar to an elevation of 2,263 metres, then alight and wander the interpretive boardwalk.

HIKE

From the upper station, a 1.4 kilometre hiking trail leads all the way to the summit of Whistlers Mountain. Please remember that the alpine environment and weather can be unpredictable. Always be safe, prepared, and dress appropriately.

SNOWSHOE

Since the alpine snowpack melts slower than in the valleys, spring visitors can explore the summit using one of Canada's classic winter transportation methods. Come prepared with winter gear from head to toe. Equipment rentals available at the upper station retail store.

EAT

Unwind in the Summit Restaurant, where meals and drinks are served with a side of panoramic views. This scenic eatery has a full menu of breakfast, lunch and dinner items, along with a full bar, teas, coffees and desserts.

STARGAZE

Get a little closer to the stars with the annual Star Sessions, available Fridays in September and Fridays & Saturdays in October. Join astronomy experts at the SkyTram for an exclusive dining and stargazing experience with the most powerful telescopes in the Canadian Rockies.

SPOT WILDLIFE

Whistlers Mountain was named for the hoary marmot's whistling alert call. Watch for these furry critters as well as the white-tailed ptarmigan, ground squirrels, pikas and perhaps even bighorn sheep. For brief periods in the summer, enjoy the alpine wildflowers. See wildlife rules on visitor guide pull out map.

PACKAGE DEALS

There's no shortage of activities to do in Jasper, and many can be combined into a package deal with the Jasper SkyTram.

Don't let a little drizzle dampen your Jasper adventures! Here's how to make the most of the national park when the sun is being shy.

6 THINGS TO DO ON A RAINY DAY

1. DINING

Grey days call for comfort food and round-the-table storytelling. From organic fare to Alberta game meats to backcountry gourmet adventures, Jasper serves up the best that Rocky Mountain cuisine has to offer. Peruse some mouthwatering options in the Foodie section (p. 50).

2. SPA

Replenish your soul and soothe your body at the Fairmont Spa (p.56). Or get a massage at Jasper Wellness (p.67). Inspired by the raw elements of Jasper National Park, these relaxing sanctuaries encourage you to slow your pace, breathe deeply and reflect on the artistry and healing power of nature.

3. SHOPPING

Pick up the perfect souvenir from your trip at one of Jasper's retailers. Specialty stores stock top-of-the-line ski gear, backcountry equipment and fashionable lifestyle attire (p. 13).

4. ENTERTAINMENT

You don't need clear skies to see Jasper's brightest stars! From the Planetarium (p. 73) to a one-of-a-kind theatre show (p. 41) that's as hilarious as it is memorable, your evening will be filled with laughs and learning.

5. JASPER RAFTING ADVENTURES

Don't spend your life waiting for the storm to pass – learn to dance in the rain! Or in this case, raft in the rain (you're surrounded by water anyway). Jasper Rafting Adventures is Jasper's newest rafting company. It started small and plans to stay that way, with a focus on creating lasting and meaningful memories. They also provide wetsuits, life jackets and other comforts in case of chilly conditions. Whether the scenery is perfectly clear or magnificently moody, the mountains surrounding the Athabasca and Sunwapta Rivers make a perfect backdrop as you listen as trained guides tell fascinating stories about Jasper's history and point out wildlife along the riverbanks, then navigate lively whitewater rapids. Discover the joy of learning in nature through a fun and educational experience that's truly terrific, whatever the weather.

6. JASPER YELLOWHEAD MUSEUM AND ARCHIVES

No visit to Jasper would be complete without a stop at the Jasper Yellowhead Museum and Archives. Located a few blocks from downtown Jasper, this hidden gem tells Jasper's story in a way that's both charming and accessible.

Visitors are often impressed with the quality of the exhibits. The permanent displays have an intuitive layout, and explore the history of Indigenous and Métis people in the area, the fur trade, the railway, European exploration, the story of Mt. Alberta's first ascent by Japanese climbers and early tourism in the national park.

See the legendary silver ice axe recovered from Yuko Maki's ascent of Mt. Alberta, musket balls that probably belonged to early explorer David Thompson, and a canoe built by trailblazing outfitter Donald Nelson "Curly" Phillips.

This haven of history is more than just a museum. It's a way for the Jasper-Yellowhead Historical Society to bring the community together. Along with high quality exhibits, both residents and visitors enjoy regular events such as speaker series, farmer's markets, art sales, and more. Temporary exhibits rotate through the Showcase Gallery, and the attached gift shop is one of the best places in town to find local books, unique souvenirs and gorgeous artwork.

Part of the reason Jasper was declared a UNESCO World Heritage Site is because of the abundant fauna that live in the national park, including elk, caribou, moose, mountain goats, bighorn sheep, bears and wolves, plus a variety of birds and many smaller creatures like marmots and pikas. Help keep wildlife wild by keeping your distance (use a telephoto lens for zoomed in pictures), never feeding or baiting animals, and staying in your vehicle if watching from the road.

DOGS IN JASPER

Want to share Jasper with your furriest family member? There's plenty of adventures waiting in our dog-friendly destination. Make your trip extra special (for both you and Fido!) with these activities and tips.

DO'S AND DON'T'S

LEASH LAWS

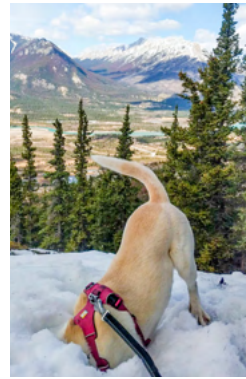

Parks Canada regulations state that all domestic animals must be kept on a leash or in suitable confinement at all times. Pets are not to be left unattended at campsites or in vehicles. Never allow your pet to chase any wild animal in the park, and always clean up after them.

RESTRICTED TRAILS

There are some areas where dogs are not allowed, even on a leash, due to endangered caribou habitat. These trails include: Leach Lake cross-country ski trail, Skyline Trail, Tonquin Valley, Cavell Meadows Trail, Bald Hills, Opal Hills and part of the Brazeau Loop.

DOG-SITTING

Want to do a non-dog friendly activity like skiing or horse-back riding? The local company My Jasper Nanny (p.37) will come to your hotel or campsite to make sure your pets get the exercise they need (or you can bring your dog to the carer's home).

JASPER SKYTRAM

Purchase a dog ticket for your well-behaved pooch and soar to the summit of Whistlers Mountain via this panoramic seven-minute flight. The tram car is cozy, but the views are unforgettable and a couple kilometres of trail await at the top. If you plan to stay awhile just remember to bring snacks as dogs aren't allowed in the upper restaurant (p.30).

JASPER RAFT TOURS

Strap on a doggy life jacket and hit the water in a 7 meter long raft designed for stability. Jasper Raft Tours offers dog-friendly raft trips, lasting between 1.5 to 2.5 hours, with 35 to 95 minutes of on-river time, depending on water levels and which tour time you choose.

CANOEING OR SUPPING

Paddle peacefully on beautiful Lac Beauvert. Rent a canoe or stand-up paddleboard from the Boathouse at the Fairmont Jasper Park Lodge (p.56) and explore this stunning part of the park. And if you see new canine ambassador Calla around the property, feel free to say hi. This highly-trained golden cutie has joined the Lodge's concierge team and is eager to welcome visitors.

PATIO DINING

If the weather's nice, dine al fresco at one of Jasper's many patio-equipped restaurants. The Maligne Canyon Wilderness Kitchen, Jasper Brewing Co., and Jasper Pizza Place all have sizable outdoor spaces that allow dogs. The Fairmont Jasper Park Lodge even has a special Pet Menu, featuring a variety of healthy and delicious options (and for pawrents staying at the hotel, pups even get dog beds, bowls with fresh water, and a special dog-friendly welcome gift in their rooms!)

JASPER HIKES & TOURS

Hiking with a guide often gives a deeper understanding of the national park. And if you book with local guides Sean and Joy, they are generally happy for you to bring along your dog, provided just confirm when booking your specific tour (p.66).

OTHER DOG-FRIENDLY SPOTS

Jasper's only fully fenced off-leash dog park is located at the intersection of Sleepy Hollow Rd. and Hazel Ave. It's a good size and well-used. Got dirty and need to clean up? A "dog wash" station is set up at the Jasper Car Wash in the Jasper Industrial Park.

PET-FRIENDLY ACCOMMODATION

Prefer not to camp or RV? There are lots of hotels, cabins and lodge's around town (and further afield in the national park, if that's your preference) that are happy to cater to your fluffy travel companion. See full list at jasper.travel/where-to-stay/pet-friendly

THE HEART OF THE MOUNTAINS

Jasper is an authentic mountain town, grounded in community spirit, storytelling, and a love for the natural world. This is our soul.

DIVE INTO RIVER CULTURE WITH WHITewater RAFTING

The rivers that transect our national park are a huge part of what makes Jasper special. Become a small part of Jasper's aquatic recreation history with the oldest whitewater rafting company in Canada. Since 1971, the company known today as Jasper's Whitewater Rafting Company has been leading visitors down the rivers that served as regional highways before people paved actual roads through the landscape. This fun and safe experience has helped multiple generations discover the joy that comes from whitewater. Everyone from hesitant first-timers to daring raft enthusiasts can experience the adventure by choosing between three tour options across two different rivers (the historic, class 2 Athabasca River or the rowdier, class 3 Sunwapta River). Don't be surprised if as soon as you strip off your wetsuit you yearn to return to the river. After all, even after five decades of life on the water, the trailblazers behind this company still love nothing more than seeing and sharing Jasper from this uniquely thrilling and breathtakingly beautiful perspective.

INDIGENOUS EXPERIENCES WITH WARRIOR WOMEN

Hear the Indigenous stories of this land, feel the heartbeat of the drum and have an intimate and candid conversation with a local Indigenous Knowledge Keeper. The event is held every Wednesday evening year-round. Or, join her Wapakwanis Plant Walk, Make and Take, where Bauer shows participants the local landscape through an Indigenous lens, highlighting flora with medicinal and traditional significance, then leading the group through the process of making a product to take home (experience part of the tour virtually with a free online video). Tea enthusiasts must inquire about her new winter offering: Tawaw Nihty. This time-honoured ritual includes a healing cuppa made with Indigenous herbology and is available in the morning (Sakastew), mid-day (Nemawin), evening (Pahkisimon) or at midnight (Apihtatipiskaw).

EVENING ENTERTAINMENT WITH JASPER THEATER PRODUCTIONS

It is dangerous to visit Jasper. If you absolutely must pass through our national park, do not under any circumstances see the acclaimed new theatre show in town. Otherwise you risk falling into the trap that has snared so many: you'll fall even deeper in love with Jasper.

The show in question – From Jasper, With Love – is a cheeky and rollicking good time. The one-hour rollercoaster is constructed as a cocktail of sketches and features an evolving cast of silly and lovable characters that desperately, hilariously, try to warn the audience away from Jasper. With scenes set in some of Jasper's most popular situations, from camping to stargazing to wildlife, the performance also gives a solid overview of Jasper's culture and highlights. If you're fresh off the train, the play will give you an idea of what to expect. If you're nearing the end of your stay, you'll laugh in recognition at the good-humoured parodies of local quirks.

The experience itself is fresh and fun. But the good times start way before the curtain rises at 8:15 p.m. (although strictly speaking, the unconventional stage has no curtain). Doors open nearly an hour before the show begins, and in that time audience members can grab a drink from the bar and wander out onto one of the greatest hidden gem patios in town. The Skyline Lounge's large outdoor space has an elevated mountain view and perfectly bookmarks the five-star rated show, which was voted 2022's best attraction.

Younger audience members (8 years and older) will get a kick out of the spectacle as much as adults, but there's also a new afternoon kids show for ages four to eleven (p.36).

The play was created by – and mirrors the personal story of – two Dutch expats who, well, fell in love with Jasper during a visit and never left. With the duo's decade of onstage experience overseas, the entire production feels polished and is a joy to watch. Even locals who claimed they don't generally go to the theatre raved about the evening. But how could they not? It shines a spotlight on everything that makes Jasper beautiful, entertaining, and unique.

PIETER & JOOST

Pieter van Loon and Joost Tijssen haven't necessarily been Jasper locals for long, but they've squeezed a lot of exploring into their time living here. Here they spotlight some of the activities that won their hearts.

Food Tour

This theatrical duo loves trying new foods and meeting new people so it makes sense that they recommend the Downtown Foodie Tour (p.50). Each stop includes a hearty serving and paired bevvie, plus local storytelling.

Old Fort Point

They also recommend this short but steep hike located a hop-skip from downtown Jasper. Ascending from the Athabasca River, you'll be rewarded with panoramic views of the whole valley and surrounding mountain ranges.

Patio Drinks

What's better than a beer with a view? Luckily Jasper has plenty of outdoor dining options (p.52). If it's nice out there's a good chance you'll see Pieter & Joost enjoying the ambiance!

The downtown core has paid parking in the summer and some one-way streets, so leave your vehicle at your accommodation and set out on foot to soak up the vibe of an authentic mountain town.

HOW JASPER PUTS THE LIFE IN WORK/LIFE BALANCE WELLNESS + SUSTAINABILITY

WRITTEN BY SABRINA DOYLE

It's so common that it's almost cliché. Someone moves to Jasper, intending to stay for a summer of work and play. Then one season turns into two, which turns into a few years, and suddenly you're looking back on decades of mountain living. Even born-and-raised youngsters desperate to break out of their native small-town often return after finding they missed the Jasper lifestyle too much. It's like the mountains have their own gravity, as if the sheer size of them is pulling people in and keeping them hooked.

"The things in life that I value are harder to do if I'm not healthy," says longtime local Richard Ireland. As Jasper's mayor of 20+ years, as well as a husband, father and lawyer, he's got a lot on his plate. "I can't give my best to all these challenges if I'm not well. Jasper is my avenue for health and wellness. I embed as much outdoors into my day as I can."

A year-round bike commuter, Mayor Ireland pushes for active, two-hour lunch breaks and he usually squeezes in an hour-long run at some point. He grew up in Jasper but spent a few years in Alberta's biggest cities to study and work in law. He and his wife returned to Jasper 35 years ago when they were ready to start a family. Now, one of his two adult sons is also back in town.

"Jasper attracts people who are interested in recreating in the outdoors. And that leads to wellness." Ireland explains that there are many people who live in Jasper who maybe aren't working primarily in the field that they went to school for—the local demand for, say, architects, is limited—but who have made Jasper their home because of the overall quality of life it affords.

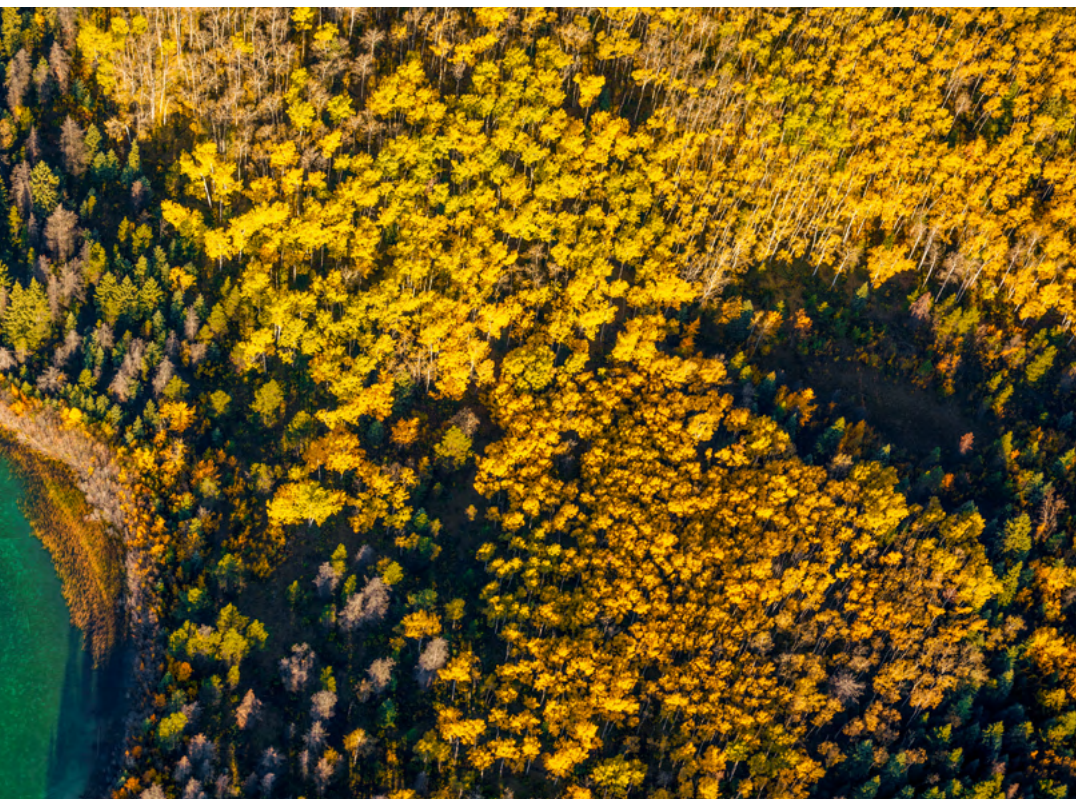

For some people it's the simple fact that thousands of kilometers of trails lead practically from their doorstep. Others value the commitment to environmental sustainability within the town. Multiple businesses have green policies that help preserve biodiversity and ecological health. New charging stations for electric vehicles were recently installed on Connaught Drive. Compost bins are plentiful. However, the concept of sustainability is complex, and organized community conversations help guide the town's goal of balancing wildlife protections, local housing, tourism growth, renewable projects and more. All the factors that touch a town located within a national park.

Mayor Ireland emphasizes that the path he's chosen may not work for everyone, but it works for him.

"Lifestyle is one of the most important decisions you will make. If you're attracted to a lifestyle in Jasper then give it a shot."

JASPER'S DARK SKY PRESERVE

As the name suggests, a Dark Sky Preserve is an area where natural darkness is protected. Artificial lighting and light pollution is kept to a minimum, allowing the stars to be more visible in the night sky. Jasper National Park is the largest accessible Dark Sky Preserve – meaning there's a town within the limits of the preserve. Each October, stargazers come from around the world to celebrate and marvel during the Jasper Dark Sky Festival (p.14).

TIPS FOR SEEING THE NORTHERN LIGHTS

1. Look to the northern corner of the horizon for the best chance of spotting the aurora borealis, which in Latin means morning light coming from the north.

2. Jasper's fall and winter have the longest hours of darkness. It's a myth that it must be cold and/or late at night to see the aurora borealis – they're just harder to see against a bright background.

3. Get real time updates on the likelihood of seeing northern lights with AuroraWatch – a website that monitors geomagnetic activity in the area and offers a free email alert service.

TASTE OF THE ROCKIES

With everything from gourmet comfort food to panoramic patios to a drool-worthy après-ski scene, Jasper is a culinary melting pot that's as delicious as it is unique.

JASPER FOOD TOURS

Variety is the spice of life and the daily Downtown Foodie Tour has both. Jasper Food Tours' 3-hour flagship tour leaves year-round at 2:30 p.m. and visits four Jasper restaurants with hearty servings of food and drink served at each. The twist? Each handpicked dish and paired beverage remains a mystery until you arrive (vegetarian and gluten free options available when pre-arranged). It's a great time with great storytellers and you'll finish stuffed. Prefer your meals at a higher altitude and booking further in advance? "Peak-Nic," is another mouth-watering experience offered by Jasper Food Tours, and is part interpretive-guided hike, part backcountry cooking lesson and part gourmet picnic. It begins with a short but steep hike to a scenic point overlooking the town of Jasper, where participants learn to prepare backpacker-friendly dishes with leave-no-trace ethics. Ask about other special dining experiences that are often available at specific times of year, including a Valentine's Gastrodisiac experience and Dinner in the Dark during the Jasper Dark Sky Festival.

JASPER BREWING CO.

Crisp. Unique. Local. The suite of beers on tap at Jasper Brewing Co. are as much a tribute to place as they are a tasty good time. Crafted using real glacier water from within the national park and founded by three born-and-raised Jasperites, these brews should lure any traveller who enjoys the odd tippie. "The Brewpub," as it's known around town, was the first brewery to open within a Canadian national park.

The in-house brew masters are practically local heroes. Sample from their rotating selection of new brews or try some of the forever favourites like the Crisp Pils and Jasper the Bear Ale. For a truly local twist, ask for a "Black & Blue" – a pint of the Babe Blueberry Vanilla Ale with the 6060 Stout layered on top. The seasonal menu serves up substantial, upscale pub style meals. The Rustic Elk Meatloaf is always a winner among carnivores while the Seared Halloumi Bowl makes for hearty, indulgent, vegetarian fare. Whether you're hungry or thirsty, Jasper Brewing Co. will fit the bill.

The restaurant has a nostalgic 70's-retro-meets-barnyard-chic aesthetic. There's wood panelled walls, custom flower-power artwork, big screen TVs playing the latest sports game, and corduroy upholstered booths that look out on the mountains through large windows (get even more expansive views between May and September on their heater-equipped patio). Their merchandise is equally stylish and available both online and at the brewpub, where the latest seasonal releases often drop first.

Natural and modern. Wild and delicious. This new restaurant at The Crimson hotel offers a refined take on Jasper's wilderness and an inventive menu that changes with the seasons. Cocktail enthusiasts will love the creative infusions, featuring local ingredients like juniper berry and spruce tip; the ice cream specials bring similar surprises. The terroir takes centre stage here via hearty, rich dishes like the Forage Burger and Crazy Elk

Reuben. The warm and rich interior is complemented by a new outdoor patio with planted borders and views of the Maligne Mountain Range. Open for breakfast, brunch/lunch and dinner. Happy hour happens daily from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. and boasts a variety of small plates and drinks specials.

AALTO RESTAURANT

Dine next to Jasper's iconic Pyramid Mountain at Aalto — the recently reimagined restaurant at Pyramid Lake Lodge. Slated to open in summer 2023, this breakfast-and-dinner spot will be a must-try (lunch will be available in summer). Take in the lakeside views through huge dining room windows as you sip a cocktail, or step out onto the patio to breathe in that alpine air. A Canadian-centric menu features a unique selection of fish, meats and local produce. Don't miss their special stargazing dinners (created in partnership with the Jasper Planetarium) available during the Dark Sky Festival and throughout the winter. Pair your meal with an adventurous aperitif by renting fun gear (like bikes, watercraft or snowshoes) from the attached Pyramid Lake Lodge.

geological wonder it sits beside. This is a sublime lunch spot within the Maligne Valley (though they also have grab-and-go options starting at 10 a.m. and early dinner until 6 p.m.). Inside, an airy space is kept cozy by an impressive central fireplace. Outside, a large patio overlooks the water that has, over time, carved Maligne Canyon from limestone. The menu takes inspiration from the simple, delicious fare that fueled Jasper's early explorers. Think slow-cooked Alberta meats, handmade preserves, local veggies and the timeless warmth of comfort food. In-house smoking and other handcrafted techniques lend a rustic authenticity to an eatery that feels tucked amid total wilderness, despite being only a short 10-minute drive from town. Come winter, inquire about the IceWalk package, which pairs lunch with an adventure you won't soon forget. Check the website for seasonal hours.

5 FOOD EXPERIENCES TO HAVE IN JASPER

Après-ski

There are few winter traditions as revered in mountain towns as après-ski. After shredding the slopes all day (or returning from some other wintery adventure) it's time to strip down to your cozy base layers and a toque to relive the day with pals around a bunch of comfort food and drinks. You'll feel right at home in the casual ambiance at the Jasper Brewing Co. (p.50), and won't go thirsty with a variety of beers on tap. Or, replenish those spent calories at Famoso Neapolitan Pizzeria (p.64) where hand-tossed pies are fired to perfection in an authentic 900°F oven imported from Italy. Alternatively, if you're wrapping up earlier in the afternoon then kick back with a brewski at Marmot Basin's Caribou Chalet (the Kokanee Glacier Deck has amazing views) or the mid-mountain Paradise Chalet & Eagle Alpine Lodge, located in the oldest building on the mountain.

Patios & Picnics

Nothing says summer like relaxing on a patio. In Jasper, it's also a supremely pleasant shortcut to getting your daily dose of fresh mountain air and top-notch people-watching. Stroll down Connaught Dr. or Patricia St. on any fine day and you'll find lots of places to sit outside, but there are some special spots to look for. The Jasper Pizza Place (p.64) has a beautiful rooftop patio with tropical vibes, delicious margaritas, heaters, and nice views (also peep the stunning wall mural by Indigenous artist Kalum Teke Dan). If the weather's sub-par, Jasper Brewing Co. has an awning and heaters. Or, you can get take-out from your favourite place and head to one of the many picnic spots around and outside of town. Lay down a blanket on the green lawn in front of the Jasper Park Information Centre, or grab a table at Pyramid Island, Maligne Lake, or Lake Annette.

Scenic dining

Enjoying a meal with a great view might seem like a given in Jasper. But certain restaurants raise the bar—sometimes literally. Take the Summit Café, located at the top of Whistlers Mountain. While you can work up an appetite by hiking to this full-service establishment, most opt to take the Jasper Skytram (p.30) shortcut flight. Tekarra Restaurant's (p.65) patio is lovely and sun-soaked in the afternoon but their fully-licensed ridge overlooking the Athabasca River is the cherry on top and merely steps away; servers will even bring out appetizers and cocktails for you to enjoy on the iconic Adirondack chairs. The Maligne Canyon Wilderness Kitchen (p.51) is right next to its namesake, and from the patio you can see the rushing river that has, over time, carved through rock to create this geological wonder. For views over the sparkling Lac Beauvert, The Great Hall at the Fairmont Jasper Park Lodge (p.60) has all-day dining and a refined gastropub menu.

Unique eats

Want to make your meal extra memorable? Jasper Food Tours (p.57) has multiple exceptional tours. The Downtown Foodie Tour is the most popular, with daily departure, a mystery itinerary and year-round availability.

But if you have a passion or interest in backcountry cooking techniques then the summer Peak Nic experience is a must, while the Bites on E-bikes tour visits multiple hidden gem eateries tucked in the wilderness just outside of town. For unique takes on farm to table dining, the newly revamped restaurant Terra (p.51) offers a seasonal menu with some tasty surprises in a chic setting. Evil Dave's Grill (p.64) serves up wickedly delicious food, with globally-inspired takes on locally-sourced ingredients. Their cocktails are also inventive and highly recommended.

Festival faves

Jasperites love celebrating, and that shows in the special culinary events that happen during festivals (p.14). We're talking themed menus, irresistible deals, and once-a-year dishes that you'll still be thinking about long after the party has passed. The year kicks off with Jasper in January, a three week winter bash during which many restaurants in town compete in the Poutine Showdown. Mountain Malanka brings Ukrainian food and drink to the forefront, while the Jasper Beer & Spirits Week celebrates Alberta's booming craft community. During the Jasper Dark Sky Festival there's always fascinating new culinary experiences to be had, like dining in pitch dark or under the stars at the top of a mountain. And then there are events like Devour: Food Film Fest and Christmas in November, where food plays a starring role in the whole thing. Even the Jasper Pride & Ski Festival has its own rainbow themed cookies.

ALEX DERKSEN

Born and raised in Jasper, Derksen dreamt of opening a bar with his two childhood best friends. Then, they did. Jasper Brewing Co. was the first brewery to open in a Canadian national park. Here are his recommended winter activities.

Family Skate

With his own kids in tow, Alex likes to head to Mildred Lake at the Fairmont Jasper Park Lodge (p.56). Best followed by an indulgent hot chocolate in the Emerald Lounge.

Ski at Marmot Basin

Get beautiful panoramic views and runs for every skill level thanks to this world-class ski resort's intuitive layout (p.22). Don't forget to take breaks and refuel at one of the chalets!

Après ski

Call him biased, but Alex loves heading to the Jasper Brewpub (p.50) a good old-fashioned post-ski hangout to relive the days adventures and sip some hoppy beers.

Scan QR code to read how three friends made their Brewpub dream come true.

SLEEP IN STYLE

Jasper is famous for its cabin culture. But visitors can also spend their nights at luxurious lakeside refuges, budget-friendly hostels, historic family-owned hotels and everything in-between.

MOUNT ROBSON INN

Highlights
Includes a high-quality breakfast

Extremely comfortable beds

Friendly staff that treats you like family

Before they can create wonderful, lasting memories, there's a few things every traveller needs. The Mount Robson Inn knows that having a nourishing breakfast, the help of great people, a soothing soak and quality rest are key to enjoying the rest of your adventure. That's why the Gulevich family – which have owned and operated the property since 1971 – does everything they can to make your stay exceptional. Part of that comes down to the comforts available at the hotel. All the rooms have luxury-level pillow-top beds and duvets, a microwave, and a fridge for convenience. The suites range from family suites with bunk beds to king suites with fireplaces and in-room hot tubs. A hot and cold breakfast is served every day and the outdoor hot tubs are the perfect spot for après adventure to take in more mountain views. Motorcyclists will be delighted at the specific amenities available, including a wash station, towels and more. Bikers who prefer more old-school rides (mountain and winter fat bikes) can access individual storage and bike tuning areas. But the homey feel also comes down to the staff. Happy workers make for happy guests, and thanks to special staff programming and a family-friendly atmosphere, Mount Robson has some of the happiest around. With its thoughtful amenities and go-the-extra-mile style service, it's no surprise that this downtown Jasper hotel has been consistently on TripAdvisor's top-10 rated places to stay.

OVERLANDER MOUNTAIN LODGE

From its secluded vantage point on a hillside, this charming network of cabins and chalets has unrivalled views of Jasper's eastern mountain ranges. The view is best enjoyed from the Overlander's jaw-dropping patio and Stone Peak restaurant, where farm to table principles come to life under Chef Dean Hossack.

The family owned and operated resort is one of the closest places visitors can stay to the Miette Hot Springs (the manager's grandfather used to ride his horse from a nearby town to the original soaking pools). The Lodge is located just outside the border of the national park, which means that guests can often get larger accommodations at a more affordable price than many comparable options in Jasper. Groups of up to eight people can stay in the luxurious vacation homes, which top out at 2,700 square feet and have their own private patios, full kitchens, gas fireplaces and BBQs.

With 70 acres of property, there is plenty to do without even needing to get in a car. Multiple hiking trails leave straight from the lodge, guests can learn about pollinators at the six honeybee hives on-site, and a short walk brings you to a nearby brewery. As the sun sets, curl up in the Fireside Lounge with their expansive Wine Spectator Magazine awarded wine list, a book from the library or a board game. Even when the Overlander Mountain Lodge is at capacity, it's always easy to find a quiet space all to yourself.

ASTORIA HOTEL

This family-run lodge is easy to spot. Located on the main road in the middle of Jasper, it's steeply gabled profile stands out against the skyline, mirroring the alpine landscape. For nearly a century, the Astoria Hotel has been owned and operated by members of the Andrew family, all avid skiers who know how to cultivate the kind of homey atmosphere that keeps adventurers coming back.

The mountain-view rooms are cozy and clean, with pet-friendly options and separate ski storage to keep gear safe until you're ready to shred again. Guests also have the option to add a canoe or kayak rental to their booking, as well as fishing packages.

Bookmark some time to dine at Papa George's Restaurant, named for one of the original Andrew patriarchs. Anchored by a gorgeous central fireplace made with local rock, this eatery is famous for its breakfast, but also serves a delicious lunch and dinner featuring authentic Alberta proteins like wild boar, elk and bison (find a vintage to pair in their custom-designed walk-in wine cellar).

Or head next door to the De'd Dog Bar and Grill. This casual watering hole is a testament to local lore. The walls are covered in pieces of Jasper's history, from photographs to old ski lift T-bars to retro ski boots. With one of the best burgers in town, occasional live music and pool tables, it's no wonder it's a beloved après-ski spot.

With four generations behind it, the Astoria is almost as quintessentially 'Jasper' as the Andrew family itself.

After a day of mountain revelry, it's a joy to retreat to this sprawling resort. Dine with a view of the mountains in The Great Hall, watch snow fall from the fireside lounge, or sip an aperitivo while browsing the exquisite stuzzichini menu at Jasper's best Italian restaurant. CABIN CAPITAL OF CANADA

Quintessentially Canadian and oh-so-cozy, Jasper's love for cabin living is inextricably entwined with the national park's history. Always evolving, modern accommodations pair heritage charm with polished comforts and have helped to make this place the self-proclaimed cabin capital of Canada.

Highlights

There are more than 600 individual cabins to rent in Jasper. Some are open year-round.

At their most basic, cabins are shelter. In Jasper, a wilderness of magnificent proportions, that core function was historically the priority. But over time the cabin lifestyle came to symbolize much more: a blissful escape from convention, where modern day stresses are left on the highway.

Consider Lewis Swift, Jasper's first game and fire guardian, who married Métis woman and celebrated embroiderer Suzette Swift and set up a cabin homestead near Pyramid Mountain that catered to Jasper's first tourists. Today, the site and buildings are dedicated to learning: the Palisades Stewardship Education Centre hosts school programs and is also used by Parks Canada's Indigenous Partners.

Jasper's story is so woven with cabins that even its name is linked to them. Jasper Hawse was a former operator of a local trading post (which also eventually took his name, becoming Jasper House). Though the structure's wooden materials were eventually repurposed by settlers and railroad workers, the meadow where it sat remains a National Historic Site.

Cabins are everywhere in Jasper National Park. Some, like the luxurious chalets at the Fairmont Jasper Park Lodge, have been retrofitted and modernized. Others are sprinkled through the backcountry, long abandoned and quietly disintegrating back into the landscape.

But whether you seek an isolated and cozy riverside cabin to call your own, or a multi-bedroom log refuge that British royalty have stayed in, there is a home-away-from-home that's waiting for you in Jasper National Park. After all, the outdoor aesthetic may have been adopted into the mainstream imagination, but nowhere is cabin culture more original, authentic and treasured than in the Canadian Rockies.

If proper preparation and safety precautions are taken, this unique option can offer memorable experiences and some truly stunning views.

Backcountry campsites range in available amenities but generally have tent pads, picnic tables, bear lockers for food storage, and pit toilets. Travelers must ensure they know what to expect at each site.

Some of the world's most stunning long-distance trails are in Jasper. Famous routes that have backcountry campsites include the Skyline Trail, the Tonquin Valley, the Brazeau Loop, Maligne Lake, and many more.

The Tonquin Valley is a backcountry area famous for its magnificent views of the Rampart mountain range which looms over Amethyst Lake and marks the divide between Alberta and British Columbia. Every winter between November 1 and May 15, Parks Canada closes the area to protect endangered caribou. The trail is best hiked in late summer and fall. To do the entire trail hikers usually need three days, reservations for backcountry campsites (p.61), and a shuttle between the two trailheads. But those who make the effort are rewarded with a spectacular adventure.
